MALDEN MAN KILLED IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENT SATURDAY

Andrew J. Kennedy, 72 years old, of Warren Avenue, Malden, was killed, in an accident which took place during a blinding rainstorm, at 1:40 a.m., on the 3rd of November. The accident was on Main Street, near Eames Street, and nearly opposite the Britt home. Kennedy's body, which was horribly mangled, was placed in the Wilmington Police Ambulance, and rushed to the Choate Memorial Hospital, in Woburn. At that place he was pronounced dead on arrival.

According to reports given to the police, Kennedy had been walking in the middle of the street, during the blinding rain, and John L. Kelly, of 11 Fern Street, Auburndale, who was driving a 1949 DeSoto sedan towards Woburn, noticed Kennedy, and swerved to the right, in an effort to avoid him. The rear door handle to the DeSoto is supposed to have struck Kennedy, and knocked him down in the street. The DeSoto then was said to have struck a pole, on the side of the street, damaging its front right fender.

At this time, a second car, a Buick sedan, driven by Charles L. Maletesta of Clifton Street, Wilmington, which was being driven towards Wilmington center, was said to have struck Kennedy, as he was lying in the street. It is believed that Kennedy's body was dragged along the street for a considerable distance, a distance of 75 feet, according to some reports.

Officers Fuller and Markey responded in the Police Ambulance.

PLAYS ON SOFTBALL TEAM

PFC. James Stephen Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Fleming, 117 Lake Street, Wilmington, was left fielder on the United States Air Force All-Star softball team at Goose Airport, Labrador. The USAF All-Stars defeated the Royal Canadian Air Force All-Stars from the RCAF Station at Goose Airport, four games to one to win the first annual "Little World Series" to be held at this isolated northern military outpost, 450 miles north of the nearest city, St. John's, Newfoundland.

Airman Fleming is an air policeman at Goose Air Base, USAF, sector of the RCAF Station at Goose Airport and strategic air base of the Northeast Air Command, USAF complement of the U.S. Northeast Command.

The initial tilt was called on account of darkness after eight scoreless innings. The U.S. team copped the second decision 6-4 and in the third, Capt. A. E. Bergstrom hurled a perfect game, not one the Americans registered a 4-0 Canadian reaching first base, as white-wash. The fourth contest was a 3-1 victory for the U.S. birdmen, while the Canadians topped the Americans 7-4 in the fifth tilt. The sixth fracas was copped by the USAF men 1-0.

This series, which aroused unprecedented enthusiasm from goth USAF and RCAF personnel, is expected to be another strong link in the chain of friendship binding together the armed forces of Canada and the United States serving side by side at this vital air base in Labrador.

RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Smith, of Woburn St., and Mr. and Mrs. James Reed of Lowell St., returned home on Monday after spending a most enjoyable week-end in Hiram, Maine as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, formerly of Wilmington.

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL STUDENTS IN WILMINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

How would you feel on November first, if your own mother or aunt or brothers were a victim of a Halloween prank?

Do you think that our parents and townspeople would be willing to contribute to the Community Fund or to the Recreation center, if we show little respect for their efforts by vandalism?

American youths are faced with this challenge: that of using all their efforts to combat the growing evils of Vandalism.

Replacing broken windows and repairing damaged schools, and washing walls and windows smeared with lipstick, wax or paint is a waste of money and time. The money spent for these repairs could be used towards a new gymnasium or that new recreation center which we want.

Perhaps the police car that is out to remove some road block is wanted a few miles back where a serious accident has just occurred. An elderly person who climbs a stepladder to remove paint marks from a building may fall and be fatally injured. Are you going to be the cause of a person's death due to a fall or to heart failure?

Your Student Council urges that you co-operate wholeheartedly in this matter so that there will be no deaths due to us, no cripples due to us, no loss of man power in our defense project due to us, and no loss of respect due to us.

Can we expect the townspeople to support our projects, if we can not respect their property?

"It's up to us"
Your Student Council

RETURNING FROM KOREA

A veteran of World War II, O'Brien served with the 87th Infantry Division in Europe. He wears the Bronze Star Medal, the Combat Infantryman Badge, the European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal, the American Theatre Campaign Medal, the Good Conduct Medal and the Victory Medal.

CHRYSLER WINS DETROIT'S "250" RACE

Tommy Thompson, 28-year-old Louisville, Kentucky, race driver, gets the checkered flag after driving his 1951 Chrysler New Yorker to victory in Detroit's grueling 250-mile NASCAR stock car classic. Thompson drove his car, powered by the new 180-horsepower Chrysler V-8 Fire-Power engine, safely around the pile-ups which marked the race without having to raise the hood. His was the only Chrysler entered in the race. The grind was so difficult that only 24 of the 58 starters finished.

EXTENDED PHONE SERVICE PLANNED FOR WILMINGTON

The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company is planning "Extended Area Service" which would eliminate toll charges on calls between the Wilmington Exchange and each of the following other Exchanges; Lowell, Reading and Woburn.

The proposed arrangement, according to Telephone Manager Elliot R. Jackson, is based on common interests existing between Wilmington and each of the other Exchanges. Toll-free service would result from the extension of local service from Wilmington to the three other exchanges and from each of them to Wilmington.

Mr. Jackson said that if a majority of Wilmington telephone customers favor the extended area service the Company expects to be able to make it effective within eighteen months after receiving an expression of their opinion. He said the "Selectmen of Tewksbury have endorsed the plan and that many telephone users in Wilmington have indicated they would favor it.

"We are especially pleased to announce plans for this extended area service because of the strong interest in it that has already been shown by many people," Mr. Jackson said. "In the many places where it has been put into effect to support the Community of interest between adjoining exchanges the extended service is highly valued by telephone users generally. We think the people served by the Wilmington Exchange would also appreciate its greater convenience and value."

Mr. Jackson pointed out that with the greatly increased size of Wilmington's local calling area by the addition of some 45,000 telephones in the other three exchanges, the monthly rates in Wilmington would be increased in conformance with the expansion. He said that Wilmington customers are being notified of the plans and rate changes by mail and are being asked to express their opinion on reply Post Cards for return to the Company.

Mr. Jackson explained that no increase in rates would be necessary in Lowell, Reading and Woburn because present rates in those Exchanges conform to the size of each one's local service area with Wilmington included.

AN AMERICAN LEGION ENDORSEMENT FOR THE CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM

Today, America faces a stern test. Democracy, freedom, the dignity of the individual—all the ideals we hold most dear—are at stake. Communism, with its Godless doctrine, would stamp out human freedom all over the world. The light has gone out in Eastern Europe. It has gone out in vast areas of Asia. Now the remaining strongholds of democracy are threatened. There is no doubt in the minds of the American Legion as to the final outcome. In the long run, a free people, determined to preserve their freedom, will triumph. But the struggle is not easy.

Today we are fighting in Korea. But there is another kind of war: the war of WORDS and IDEAS. It is a battle for men's minds. It is a war in which every man and woman in this audience can play a part. In this war every American is a frontline soldier.

Psychological warfare is as old as war itself. Hitler refined the art with his technique of the Big Lie. If you tell a lie that's big enough, loud enough, and repeat it often enough, millions of people will believe it. So said Hitler. Now Stalin is trying to improve this technique: with bigger lies, louder lies, repeated more often.

We have seen how this works in the U.N. Security Council—where the Russian delegate tries to "prove" it was South Korea that invaded North Korea... repeating again and again the lie that the United States instigated the Korean war.

The Big-Lie propaganda is not aimed at the American people. The Soviets use the United Nations as a platform to talk over our heads to the people of Europe and Asia, in the hope that they will fall for it. Millions of them have. That is why we must reach these same people and GIVE THEM THE TRUTH.

Soviet leaders circulate so-called peace petitions. Let's get this straight. THE ONLY PEACE STALIN OFFERS IS THE PEACE OF THE POLICE STATE, THE PEACE OF THE PRISONS, THE PEACE OF THE TOMB.

THE CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM is a mobilization of American citizens to defeat this vicious Communist propaganda, and get the truth behind the Iron Curtain. It answers the BIG LIE with the BIG TRUTH of freedom. It demonstrates dramatically that our goal is freedom and peace for all men and all nations.

Whereas the State Department of the American Legion is sponsoring the CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM in Massachusetts and whereas the success of the Crusade may well prevent World War III, the undersigned officials of the American Legion have the endorsement of the local posts to recommend to the general public this campaign for funds and memberships.

New York (IES) - General public criticism of television as having just too many low-grade people posturing over the air has been brought to the attention of some potent sponsors by the research organization. Recent sales resistance to highly promoted, pumped-up products is ascribed to disgust of the solid, middle-class buying public at the low-brow comics. Another reaction noted, puppets are practically done. The public taste has outgrown the "formula".

New York (IES) - The report is around that CBS is more than glad to stop making color television machines. The operation was getting to be a headache.

SPEEDING ON MAIN STREET

During the last few months there have been two serious accidents on Main Street, between Butters Row and the Woburn Line. . . . Why?

In the first place, it is a lonely stretch of road. There are no houses, and there is no cross traffic. Motorists know of this place. They succumb to the temptation, and speeding is the result.

Of course, someone is going to say—"what are the Police doing? Well, of course, the police are here to stop speeding and to enforce the laws. There are many places in town where an occasional appearance would do some good. There is only one police cruiser.

One thing is plain. As long as there are people who will take chances, so long will there be accidents.

There is one way, and one way only, that is sure. Each and every motorist should engrave in his mind—"DRIVE SAFELY."

Commuters' Column

Are the Woolly Caterpillars Right?

I noticed a thin coating of ice on two ponds on the way to the station this morning. Makes me thankful I got the screens off and the storm windows on last week-end. Big discussion at the station whether we were going to have "green" winter or a lot of snow. Opinion seemed to be divided, but someone spoke up and said he'd read in Life magazine that the woolly caterpillars have wide bands this year; that means only one thing—a very warm winter. Another guy said he'd be thankful as his youngest son had gone off to college and that meant he would have to do all the snow shoveling himself.

That brought the conversation around to griping about how the town could do better at snow removal and someone said, "Look at how the Boston and Maine goes at it. They're on the job just as soon as the first flake starts falling."

"That's right," another fellow said. "When I hear the radio calling for snow shovellers for the B and M, I know we're in for at least six inches. They're better than the weather man."

Then our oldest commuter spoke up. "I guess," he said, "the B and M has an ear out for all the weather prophets—even the woolly caterpillar. But they're not taking any chances. Each year about this time you'll see a lot of B and M snow-fighting equipment lined up on sidings all over the system. . . . big snow plows, bucket loaders and two or three of those ingenious locomotive snow melters like the one they designed and built for themselves several years ago. The B and M's got a pretty good on-time reputation to maintain, and for my money they've been doing it darned well for a good many winters."

Just then along came the 8:08—on time. And we all made for the platform.

Now that your Fall housecleaning is finished, you'll need a bouquet of lovely flowers from the Fireside Gift Shoppe, 438 Main St., Woburn, to brighten your home.

SNOW

We thought that the 1st of November was pretty early for snow, but are assured by several old timers that there has been snow earlier than that, here in Wilmington. Anybody know the earliest date?

HALLOWEEN

Wilmington's Halloween was, we must report, a very nice affair. Many children went out the night before, presumably to get their hands in, with a little practice. The police, who had announced their plans, were out in force, and there was very little trouble. A few store windows were soaped, which no one really minded. The worst example we saw was the actions of a group in the cemetery. All the urns, over the graves along the Wildwood Street of the cemetery were tipped over. We don't think it was funny.

SINBAD WAS A PIKER

Many years ago, in the city of Busrab, where the waters of the Euphrates flows down to the sea, a retired sailor, by the name of Sinbad, sat and spun stories to his listeners about Aladdin, and his wonderful lamp.

Last week, the members of the Wilmington Rotary Club met a man who could spin still better stories of a still more wonderful lamp.

Jim Sutherland, general manager of a division of Sylvania Electric, gave a fascinating talk on the wonder of electronics. He began by showing how radio tubes are getting smaller and smaller, until there are tubes today which can do anything the old large tubes could do, and yet are smaller than an average acorn.

The "wrist radio" of Dick Tracy comics may be a figment of the artists' fancy, yet Jim had a radio which was no bigger than an ear plug, and he demonstrated it by plugging it into his ear. Another was hardly larger than a lady's compact.

Jim spoke to his audience about the digital computers in use at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the tubes that go into such mathematical marvels. Radar, so much used in navigation and aviation was explained to the listeners, as were the new radios, which have their circuits printed, instead of being wired.

And, said Jim, it all began 50 years ago, in the nearby town of Middletown. (as far as Sylvania is concerned) when a man by the name of John Poore got the idea of rebuilding burned out electric lights. He took the old burned out bases, and with these built a new light. He hired six people, to work for him, and from these six we have today over 30 different plants scattered over a good part of the United States.

Having spun his tale, our modern Aladdin then had his turn to listen and marvel, for—lo! Rotarian Ernest Currier could too, spin tales about John Poore, and his first six employees. Mr. Currier's mother was one of those six.

Corner, that you will have stone walls on both sides of the street, as you go along. When Ephraim Buck, and his sons cultivated the fields on top of Buck's Hill many years ago, they cleared the fields of stones. Later, when Wildwood Street was laid out, more stones were cleared, and the walls that line that street were laid.

The hill, "Buck's Hill," is geologically speaking, a drumlin. It is a small one, but just the same, a very fine example, perhaps the best for miles around.

Drumlins were made by the glaciers, as the ice retreated. The movement of the ice "shouldered" debris, made of rocks and clay, into hills, which always have their axis parallel to the direction of the movement of the ice, in this region Northwest-Southeast. Nearly all the islands in Boston harbor are drumlins, as are little and great Nahant. Buck's Hill, as we have said, is almost a classical drumlin, complete with characteristic roche moutonees (sheep rocks) which may be seen anywhere on the hill, as for instance, next door to the Baxter home. Any person with a slight knowledge of geology would recognize this hill for what it is, at a glance.

When the Wilmington Housing Authority chose a site on Buck's Hill for its housing development, there were engineers who were called to Wilmington to make sure that the site was suitable. These engineers were very very fussy, and they checked everything, to make sure that there would be no later troubles. They went back to Boston, and their stamp of approval was made on the plans—nothing wrong, no slums, no swamps, no ledges, no rocks, no nothing.

Came the day when the work started. The bulldozers roared, and confidently dug their snout-like blades down into the rock-free soil, while the engineers and other persons watched complacently—for a few minutes.

That's right, gentle reader. The bulldozers struck rocks. Rocks, rocks, and more rocks. Little pebbles, and great big boulders. All over the place.

We wonder if those engineers have noticed the stone wall by this time.

back to cancel half a line. Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it. Omar Khayyam.

In the twilight, shadows stretch themselves like snakes, beyond their normal length. What causes shadows? As I write, beside a window on a cloudy Autumn day, there is a dark shadow on the inside, under my hand, as it moves along the paper. My hand is an opaque body that blots out the light and this shutting off of light causes the shadow. To remove the shadow, I must remove my hand and if I remove my hand there will be no writing, just a blank page. The hand and the shadow must remain to do their appointed work.

There is a shadow on the sands of Asia today that is worth watching. It is not a new shadow, it is as old as man. Whether the shadow is long or short, the body is still there and the Light. The past would be but an obscure blur if we did not have written words of history, the story of Man, to study and compare with our present lives. We can see history repeat itself, and if we are wise, we can look beneath the surface in our own existence, and see and understand why people blindly curse, and hate and kill each other.

On the 17th of March, 1811, an Englishman at a Capuchin Convent in Athens, wrote a poem which we should read today. Byron surveying the ruins of the ravished Grecian Shrines ("Sacred to Gods but not secure from man") must have felt as any honest Englishman felt as the buried the bomb victims at Coventry, the German who loved Berlin as he gazed on its rubble, or the French peasant as he stood by the ashes of his home, bitter almost to despair, revenge and hate, destruction, instincts brooding and breeding in his very soul.

The Ancient Greeks had their Goddess of Wisdom, Athena, who sprang from her father's head. The Romans had their Minerva the Goddess of War. Byron com-

Correcting Faults— Trailing

If your dog is a trailer, you are up against a problem much harder to solve than any other fault. Trailing, of course, is the tendency of a dog to follow or watch a brace-mate instead of going out and hunting independently.

It is hard to correct because the offender does not understand what he is doing that is wrong. Punishment does no good because the dog does not know why he is being chastised.

by J. Earl Bufkin, professional dog trainer and one of the authors of the
Purina Gun Dog Book

The habit often sets in with the young dog's learning to love to race and play with another dog in the field. For this reason I prefer to train my young dog alone as far as possible so they have thoroughly established their self-reliance. When it is necessary to brace a young dog showing a trailing inclination with an experienced dog for training purposes, the pup usually can be worked successfully with an old dog that is much slower in pace and shorter in range.

The pup's greater ambition and speed soon carry him past his brace-mate and out where he does his own hunting without watching the other dog.

The dog that is a confirmed trailer puts this ahead of the pleasure of finding birds. The best means of correction is to make him love the gun and birds it drops for him to retrieve. Work him alone. When he points, shoot to kill. Let him know that every time he finds birds, you'll bring one down. Praise him profusely when he retrieves. Fill him with the spirit of finding more birds until the thought of trailing seems unimportant.

Minerva in the mouth of a broken, defeated Athena who still tried to clasp the olive branch, even as it shrunk and withered in her grasp. That seems to be a picture of the Goddess of our United Nations today, an olive branch in one hand, atomic bombs in the other.

A few days ago the English delegate to the United Nations tried to remove the curse from the words of a broken old Iranian. The words of the curse of Minerva from the pen of Byron, an English poet in 1811, were:

"Look to the East, where Ganges' swarthy race shall shake your tyrant Empire to its base; Lo! there Rebellion rears her ghastly head, and glares the Nemesis of native dead; Till Indus rolls a deep purple flood, and claims his long arrears of Northern blood."

That was in 1811. Today we should be more tolerant. Our claims are but hollow vacuums, sounding tubes of threats of future violence, as long as we claim special rights and privileges for ourselves, while we deny or strangle them in any way, for others.

Britain was and is not all tyrant. Some of her sons have not been blind to the selfish interests of their time. They openly and defiantly spoke for the oppressed in countries under her yoke. John Ruskin bitterly accused his government of murder, when a mother in Asia, ate her own child during a famine. Such world minded men left behind them a silver chain of understanding and sympathy, which can yet bind men's hearts and minds to One purpose, a better world. Indus need not roll a purple flood, a sign of internal blood poisoning in a person or a Nation. In "The Light of Asia", the Buddha looked with compassion on the man stricken with purple disease, he knew that the elements in the man's blood stream were all mixed and confused, but he could do nothing to help him.

Septicemia was usually fatal a generation ago. Today we have antibiotics that eat up or neutralize the destructive organisms.

Asia's old wounds must be drained carefully, tenderly and painlessly as soon as possible, no matter what the operation costs in money, time or patience. The patient is old, weak and exhausted.

What kind of doctor would concentrate on the wealthy possessions of a patient, worrying about who would grab it, if he died, while the patient tossed maddly in delirium. That is just what the United Nations is doing now. The United Nations has a small instrument in its power, that can reshape the world. This is a definite stand on human rights and responsibilities. If all are free born there must be drastic changes, beginning with the rights and responsibilities of children, with a wholesome balance. The three R's, Rights, Responsibilities, and Reasons for them must be indoctrinated in a simple way, to all the peoples so that they will understand that we are all fundamentally the same, as human beings. The differences which have sprung up are superficial. They must be balanced in the head, as well as the hands. The light of the intellect must shine above the shadows.

When men can lift their eyes and hearts above the mercenary and material, they will not fear the shadows. The figure bearing a torch above the sand will not be a greedy destroyer, but a friend, a healer, and a Savior.

CRIPPLED AND AGED FIND GAINFUL WORK AT 'SHOP'

Five mornings each week more than 20 of Lowell's maimed, crippled, aged and diseased pass through the doors of a rambling, five-story building at 99 Willie Street.

And if it were not for the kindness of Lowell housewives, these disabled people might very well be entering a clinic or hospital for treatment. Actually, however, they are going to work—to work provided them by the thoughtfulness of scores of local women who contribute their discarded goods to Goodwill Industries.

For the sprawling midcity building employ twice as many disabled people if it were assured of enough "raw material" to keep them at work.

"It has been established for us officially that it takes $600 a year to provide the necessities of life for handicapped person," Rev. Bowles says.

"We can take twenty-five additional people, and put them on our payroll—where they will be paid an average of $26 a week—if the good women of Lowell will open their hearts and homes to give us the material we need."

FOUNDED BY CLERGYMAN

The first Goodwill Industries plant was founded by Dr. Edg. Helms, a Methodist clergyman, back in 1905.

Dr. Helms conceived the idea of aiding the handicapped by letting them help themselves, and accordingly set up a small shop in Boston's poor South End in which they might do so.

With the assistance of the Methodist Church's Board of Home Missions, the movement spread like wildfire, particularly after the First ing is the Lowell quarters of Goodwill Industries—an international organization dedicated to rehabilitating the handicapped through industrial therapy.

BUSY WORKSHOP

There, in clean, well-ventilated workshops, the disabled workers go about their tasks of repairing the materials sent them. Visitors to shop may see a legless man repairing shattered pieces of furniture; or they may see a palsied, former bed-ridden youth drawing music from once silent radios; or they may see arthritic and rheumatic women running bright cloth patterns through their humming sewing machines.

For making new things out of old is a day-to-day affair at Goodwill.

While most have been handing the junkman unwanted articles, the handicapped employed there have been sewing, nailing and gluing them back together again—and they have been making a living at it.

Goods which householders donate to Goodwill are collected in a corporation-owned truck operating in all parts of the city. Each truckload is returned to the Willie Street building where it is cleaned, reprocessed and sent out to be sold in the store across from the Y.W.C.A.

WAGES PAID

Sales of the repaired articles go into paying the handicapped's wages. A non-profit corporation and a Red Feather agency, Goodwill is "subsidized" by the Community Chest for any shortages which might hamper its operation.

Rev. Paul Bowles, who serves as the Executive Director of the local group, explains that Goodwill could World War, when the Nation was faced with the problem of caring for the thousands of maimed either in the conflict itself or in industrial accidents. Today there are Goodwill branches in 101 American cities and in seven foreign lands.

Lowell's Goodwill project was launched in 1920. From that year until 1937, when it acquired its present headquarters, the organization operated out of a building at 85 French Street. Its store is located at 96 Paige Street.

MANY DEPARTMENTS

The articles contributed by local women are reprocessed in the large floor space, in which there are departments for dry-cleaning, pressing millinery work, cobbling, upholstering, mattress making, toy repairing, and radio and electrical work.

Neither racial nor religious barriers are recognized by Goodwill—which frequently supplies its employees with jobs in local industry, or helps them to set up businesses of their own. The only condition for acceptance is that the applicant be handicapped.

According to Rev. Bowles, all that the handicapped are asking for is a chance to work—a point that singles out Goodwill from the host of other organizations caring for the "unemployed". "This distinguishes our group because everyone here, is here only because he wants to be," Mr. Bowles says.

Any wonder that Goodwill's plea to housewives is—"not charity, but a chance?"

More and more people throughout the country are wisely forming the habit of getting chest x-rays at least once a year to find out whether or not there are signs of tuberculosis in their lungs.

Although additional tests are necessary before a definite diagnosis of tuberculosis is made, a chest x-ray is one of the first steps in to-year check on the health of searching out this communicable disease. For while early tuberculosis has no apparent symptoms, indications of even early disease will usually show up on the x-ray.

People who realize "one chest x-ray is not enough" keep a year-their lungs. For tuberculosis can strike at any time. A favorable report on a chest x-ray now is no guarantee that tuberculosis will not develop in the future.

Tuberculosis is caused by germs called tubercle bacilli which are passed on by those who have an active case of the disease to those who are well. There is no way of knowing just when tuberculosis may attack.

Obviously, one way to avoid tuberculosis is by keeping away from those who have the disease in an active stage. But we cannot be certain that we are not in contact with TB. For people can look and feel well and still be suffering from tuberculosis, since the disease has no obvious symptoms in an early stage. Hence a person can unknowingly be getting a daily bombardment of tubercle bacilli within his own family circle or from relatives and friends with whom he associates.

That is why doctors and the tuberculosis associations urge every adult 15 years of age and over to form the habit of getting a chest x-ray at least once a year. If tuberculosis should develop, a person then has the chance of having his disease found early, when it is easiest to cure.

Tuberculosis can be cured, but it is more difficult to cure when it is found in an advanced stage.
